LICHFIELD WILLS AND ADMINISTRATIONS.

The Council of the Shropshire Archæological and Natural History Society, having decided not to continue the issue of the Calendars of Wills and Administrations in the various Peculiar Courts at Birmingham, Derby, and Lichfield, since they do not relate to the County of Salop, nor of the Alphabetical Index of names of testators to the whole series, beg to inform those members who wish to complete their sets, that the Calendars of the above-named Peculiars and also the Alphabetical Index can be obtained on payment of five shillings. Names of intending subscribers should be sent to the Rev. W. G. D. Fletcher, St. Michael's Vicarage, Shrewsbury.

later than in other places. The old custom of "Heaving" at Easter, a popular form of commemorating the Resurrection, was very general in it less than half a century ago. On Easter Monday it was the privilege of the men to lift the women whom they met three times above their heads in the air, and on the following day the women claimed and exercised a similar privilege with regard to the men.¹ On the evening of All Souls Day (Oct. 31st) the boys used to go "Souling," i.e., collecting seed cakes called "Soul cakes," or anything else they could get. St. Thomas' Day (Dec. 21st) was called "Begging Day." Women and children used to go round to the houses begging corn. At most farm-houses a sack was put ready, and each woman and child had a small measure full given them when they came; at other houses they received money or bread and cheese. All these old customs have died out now, as has also "Wake Sunday," which was for Shrawardine Sept. 19th, if a Sunday, or the first Sunday after; an instance of the Wake Sunday not being on the same day as the festival of the Saint to whom the Church is dedicated, St. Mary the Virgin being the dedication of Shrawardine.²

It is still, however, considered unlucky for a woman to be the first to cross the threshold into a house on New Year's Day.

And the Sermon Bell is still rung at 8 a.m. every Sunday, a memorial, perhaps, of the time when there were only sermons at long intervals, often dependent upon the occasional visits of some preaching friar, and when the Church bell was sounded to tell the villagers that there would be a sermon in English as well as the reading of the Prayers in Latin.³

¹ Agnes Strickland, in her Lives of the Queens of England, tells us that King Edward I. was heaved by the Ladies of Queen Eleanor and paid £14.

² This may be one of the numerous cases of the Normans finding a British Church in existence at the Conquest, and altering its dedication from that of some old British Saint to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

LORDS OF THE MANOR AND PATRONS OF THE LIVING OF SHRAWARDINE.

Richard Clive, of Styche, Market Drayton, M.P. for Montgomery, married Rebecca, daughter of Nathaniel Gaskell of Manchester, and had besides five sons and three daughters who died young.

(1) Robert, b. 29 Sept., 1725, first Lord Clive.

³ 1812 is a mistake for 1751.

- (2) Rebecca, b. 18 Oct., 1730, m. her first cousin Robert Clive, Rector of Moreton and Canon of Westminster, and died 1825, aged 95.
- (3) Sarah, b. 20 April, 1732, m. Sir John Markham, Bart.
- (4) Judith, b. 1 Dec., 1733, m. Thomas Wolley, Esq., of Shrewsbury.
- (5) Frances, b. 12 Feb., 1734, m. Matthew Wilson, Esq., of Easton, co. York.
- (6) William, b. 1745, d. June 15, 1825, father of the Rev. William Clive, Rector of Shrawardine 1834-1842, and of the Rev. George Arthur Clive, Rector of Shrawardine 1842-1881.

Robert Clive, writer in H. E. I. C. 1743; Ensign H. E. I. C. army 1746; Captain 1750; M.P. St. Michael's, Cornwall, but unseated 1752; Lieut.-Colonel, and Governor of Fort St. David, 1755; M.P. Shrewsbury 1761-74; Baron Clive of Plassey, co. Clare, Ireland, 1762; Governor and Commander-in-Chief of British Possessions in Bengal, 1765-1767; Recorder of Shrewsbury 1771-74; created a Knight of the Bath. Married 15 March, 1752, to Margaret, dau. of Edmund Maskelyne of Purton, Wilts. Died Nov. 22, 1774, aged 49, leaving two sons, Edward, who succeeded him, and Robert, a Lieut.-Colonel, b. Aug. 30, 1769, and two daughters, Rebecca and Margaret. On his return from India in 1760, Lord Clive "set himself to cultivate Parliamentary interest. His purchases of land seem to have been made in a great measure with that view, and after the general election of 1761 he found himself in the House of Commons at the head of a body of dependents, whose support must have been important to any administration" (Macaulay "Lord Clive"). It was at this time that he bought the "Lordship" of Shrawardine and Montford from the 2nd Lord Montfort.

Edward Clive (2nd Baron), b. 7 March, 1754, Governor of Fort St. George, Madras. Received on 3rd May, 1804, the thanks of both Houses of Parliament for the important services he rendered during the Mahratta war. Created Baron Clive of Walcot, co. Salop; Baron Powis of Powis Castle, and Earl of Powis, 14 May, 1804; Recorder of Shrewsbury 1775. Married Henrietta Antonia, daughter of the 1st Earl of Powis (created 1748), and heiress of her brother, the 2nd Earl (who died in 1801). About 1825 he began to build the present Shrawardine Castle for a residence at Shrawardine, but never finished it, the building now standing being, it is said, intended only for the servants' quarters. He died in 1839, leaving two sons, Edward, who succeeded him, and Robert Henry.

Edward (2nd Earl), b. 22 March, 1785; Knight of the Garter; M.P. Ludlow; Lord-Lieut. of co. Montgomery; Colonel South Salopian Yeomanry 1828-1848; assumed in 1807 the surname and arms of Herbert by royal licence. Married in 1818 to Lucy Graham, daughter of the 3rd Duke of Montrose, and died 1848, leaving five sons and two daughters.

- (1) Edward James, b. 1818, who succeeded him.
- (2) Charlotte Elizabeth, b. 1821, married 1846 to Hugh Montgomery, Esq.
- (3) Percy Egerton, b. 1823, P.C.; K.C.B.; M.P. for South Shropshire; General in army; d. 1876.
- (4) George, b. 1825; Dean of Hereford 1867; d. 1894.
- (5) Robert Charles, b. 1827, Chancellor of the Diocese of Lichfield.
- (6) Lucy, married Thomas Calvert, Esq.
- (7) William Henry, b. 1834, Major-General 1885-90; formerly Col. of 4th West Indian Regiment.

Edward James (3rd Earl) was M.P. for North Shropshire 1843-48; Colonel of the South Salopian Yeomanry 1848-72; and Lord-Lieut. of Montgomeryshire. Died 1891, and was succeeded by his nephew George Charles.

George Charles (4th Earl), b. 24 June, 1862, is the second and only surviving son of the late General the Right Hon. Sir Percy Egerton Herbert, P.C.; K.C.B.; M.P.; younger brother of the 3rd Earl. He married in 1890 the Hon. Violet Ida Eveline Lane-Fox, daughter of the 12th Baron Conyers, and has issue, Percy Robert, Viscount Clive, b. Dec. 2nd, 1892.

¹ For this spelling of his name cf. the entry made by the Rev. A. Newling in the Montford Register under May, 1741. "Memorandum: in the beginning of this month His Majesty was pleas'd to create Henry Bromley, Esq., Lord of this Mannor, a Peer of Great Britain by the stile and Title of Lord Montfort, Baron of Horseheath, in the County of Cambridge; and my Lord, at that time, by word of Mouth gave me Orders to alter the name of the Parish in the Register according to his Title."

² Nevil Maskelyne, Astronomer Royal, was the third son of Edmund Maskelyne, of Purton, in Wilts, by his wife Elizabeth Booth, and was born in London, Oct. 6, 1732. Educated at Westminster, in 1749 he entered Catherine's Hall, Cambridge, but soon migrated to Trinity, and graduated in 1754 as 7th Wrangler. In 1757 he was elected Fellow of Trinity, and in 1758 a Fellow of the Royal Society. He took his M.A. in 1757; his B.D. in 1768; and his D.D. in 1777. Ordained to the curacy of Barnet, Herts, in 1753, he was presented by his nephew to the living of Shrawardine in 1775, but vacated it in 1782, by the acceptance of the Rectory of North Runcton, Norfolk. made an astronomer of him. Astronomer Royal, 1765. In 1802 he was elected one of eight Foreign Members of the French Institute, and he died in his Observatory on the 9th of February, 1811, aged 79. His writings and controversies are too numerous to mention, but among them was the establishment of the Nautical Almanac. His sister Margaret, Lady Clive, survived till 1817. (Dict. of Nat. Biog.).

In the time of the Rev. G. A. Clive the Rectory of Shrawardine was joined to the Vicarage of Montford for ecclesiastical purposes. In all civil affairs, however, the parishes are still as distinct and separate as they were before. When the union was made about 1860, Shrawardine was transferred to the Diocese of Lichfield from that of Hereford. The present Church at Montford was opened on March 5, 1737, the foundation stone being laid on March 19, 1736. "Mr. Edmund James, Rector of Shrawarden, and Mr. Henry Withington, Steward of Shrawardine Manor, were two of the trustees." The dates on the three bells, which were removed in 1891, were 1656, 1676, and 1717.

² The only existing Churchwarden's Book begins this year. John Dansey was the youngest son of Richard Dansey of Easton Court, Herefordshire.

³ The Drury Lane has now disappeared, though there are still traces left. It ran at the bottom of the Rectory garden, parallel to the road past the Church and Rectory.

THE REGISTERS OF SHRAWARDINE, 1645—1812.

The New Regester booke of the parish of Shrawardine in the Countie of Salop, and in the Diocesse of Hereford, transcribed out of a former, which was too litle, and insufficient for this use.

March 26, 1664.

Francis Browne, Rector,
Anthonye Russell Churchwarden.

1664

There is a custom in this parish for the payment of Mortuaries according to ye Statute,⁵

¹ A window has been placed in the Church to the memory of Mr. Pryce Bowen "by his neighbours and a few of his friends, as a memento of their respect and esteem for his many good qualities."

² 1861 Church restored.

³ Mr. Burton (Eton and Christ Church, B.A. 1865) rowed 4 in the Oxford crew of 1862, and afterwards did a little in the steeplechasing line, riding his own horses, under the pseudonym of Mr. "Den."

⁴ 1892, Church restored.

⁵ This entry is in the handwriting of Robert Adams, who was inducted into the Rectory in March 20th, 1664-5. Francis Browne died December 1st, having lived only nine months after transcribing the old Registers. Mortuaries were fees paid "upon the death of the head of the family."

Shrawardine, March 28, 1664—In the tyme of our late Unnatural, Unciuil and Unhappy warrs that were between the King and Parliament, Shrawardine Castle was made a Garrison for the King Sept 28, 1644. Sr William Vaughan, Colonel, was made the Gouvernour of it. This Castle was the head Quarters of al his forces. While this Garrison Continued, the Church & Chancell were puld downe; the Outbuildings of the Castle, the parsonage house with al Edifices thereunto belonging, and the greatest, fairest, & best part of the Town, were burnt for the safetye (as it was pretended) of the sayd Garrison. In this fying the Regester book, among many books of the Minister was burned.

Now here followeth a Regester of al such weddings, christnings and Burials as have been sinc that tyme: only by the way, some things are to be noted & remembered.

Shrawardine Chancel was thrown down on St Matthias day, Feb. 24, 1644.

The Church was puld down on Whitsunday Eve, June 8, 1645.

The Town was burnt on Midsum'er Eve & Midsummer day, 1645

The Garrison was cowardlye surrendred up to the Parliament forces under the Command of Colonel Hunt,¹ Colonel Lloyd, and Mr Charlton² after 5 days seige. And within less than a fortnight after al the timber works of the Castle and much Goods y^t were in it, were al consumed with fire, upon a sudden report, y^t Sr Willia' Vaughan was Coming to surprize it. Afterwards the Stone work was puld down, & carried to Shrewsburye, for the repaying of the Castle there; & the making up of Rousal wal standing on the Seuern side

The Church was rebuilt by a Voluntarie Collection through the Countrie in the year 1649. Al the mean-while the parish assembled for the publick worship of god in the Castle Stable. Richard Typton the Elder was a diligent careful Churchwarden, when the Church was builded

One, Mr. Edgerlye is sayd to have been parson here for aboute the space of 40 years

After him succeeded Mr Corbet Rector of Westonstow, & also parson of this parish; He is reported to have lived to a very great age, he injoyed this place for aboute 50 years

Richard Harrison a Cumberland man, Mr of Arts & fellow of Queens Colledg in Oxford was chosen parson of this parish by Sr Henry Bromley; He enioyed this place 46 years, & then dyed being aged 86 years, he was buried Sept 15, 1638

Francis Browne born in Newport, Mr of Arts of Lincoln Colledg in Oxford, was Vicar of Monford 7 years, and after the death of Mr Harrison (by the free donation of Henry Bromley, Esq., Lord of this Man'our, & patron of the Rectorye) was removed from Monford to be parson of this parish: He was inducted into this Rectorye by Mr Clark, parson of Fittz, Vicar of Alberburye & the Rural Dean of Pontesburye, Nour 26, 1638. The Sunday following he read openly in the Church the book of Articles

Francis Browne being Vicar of Monford, Married Priscilla Morris the daughter of Rowland Morris [of Endsdon³], yeoman, & Bayliff of this Lordshipp [of Shrawardine³], July 25, 1637

Isaac Browne the son of Francis Browne Vicar of Monford and of Priscilla Browne his wife was baptized May 7, 1638

The sayd Isaac Browne, being prentise to Capt. Price, Merchant and Mr of a Ship, dyed at the Bay of Bengala in the East Indies, and was buried in May, 1658

Joha'na Browne daughter of Francis Browne, Rector of this parish, and of Priscilla Browne his wife was baptized the 26 day of April 1640

³ The words "Endsdon" and "Shrawardine" have been lightly crossed out, but are still perfectly legible.

The sayd Joha'na Browne, was marryed to William Haw . . . Chandler and Alderman of Newport Apr. 30, 1663. They had a license and were marryed at Shawbury¹

¹ There is no entry of this marriage in the Shawbury Register. The rest of the bridegroom's name is completely lost.

² Probably one of the Heylins of Alderton. The following is the latter part of their Pedigree in the Herald's Visitation of 1623:—

² Jan. 1. High Ercall was garrisoned for the King by Sir Richard Newport, who gave £6000 towards the Royal cause, and was therefore advanced to the dignity of a Baron of England by the title of Lord Newport of High Ercall in September, 1642. The Hon. Beatrice Bromley was a daughter of Sir Richard Newport, and widow of Henry Bromley, who died 1652, hence her liberality. On the outside wall of Ercall Church may still be seen marks caused by cannon balls, when the adjacent Hall was besieged by the Parliamentarians, and taken by them after a stubborn resistance. In their "Weekly Account," under April 8th, 1645, they said they had "made a great breach into High Ercall Church."

- Apr: 4 Henry Hilley took on him the office of churchwarden, and Rowland Owen that of a constable Neuer was more cordial love, & hono^r shewed to any king than was to this exiled prince, at his reception into the kingdom in all places.

- June 9 William Stafford of the Pentry, weuer, was marryed to Gwen Evans, a mayd servant of Mr Wingfields²

1 "Memorandum, that there was collected in Mapledurham, in the County of Oxon, the sum of Twelve Shillings of Lawful Money of England, towards the building of the Church of Oswestree in the County of Salop, by virtue of Oliver Lord Protector his letters patent for that purpose, 25 March, 1659."—Extract from the Register of St. Margaret's Church, Mapledurham, Reading.

When Oswestry Castle was garrisoned for the King the Steeple of Oswestry Church was taken down to prevent its being used as a point from which to molest the Castle, in the event of the town falling into the hands of the Parliamentarians. On June 22nd, 1644, Oswestry surrendered to General Mytton.

2 "John Wingfield, gent., of Alderton," who on June 8th in this year (1660) availed himself of King Charles II. offer of pardon by a public declaration at Shrewsbury that he would henceforth be a loyal subject. The house at Alderton bears the date 1591. Thomas Wingfield (who was made a Burgess of Shrewsbury in 1609, and after being an Alderman, was elected Bailiff in 1617 and 1623, and Mayor in 1640) sided with the Parliament. He married a cousin of Colonel Thomas Hunt, who commanded the troops that captured Shrawardine Castle, and had two sons, Samuel (who bought the estate of Preston Brockhurst, when Sir Vincent Corbet of Moreton Corbet, had to sell part of his property to pay the fine levied on him by the Parliament), and John, (who purchased Alderton from John Heylin also a sufferer for royalty), from whom the Rev. John Wingfield, Vicar of Montford 1790-1830, and curate of Shrawardine 1800-1814, was fourth in descent, (Blakeway's Sheriffs of Shropshire, p. 150). Samuel Wingfield was admitted to Shrewsbury School in 1628, and John in 1631.

² Thus entered in the Abbey Church Register. "1665, June 5, Jonathan the grandchild of Jonathan Langley, Esqre., and son of Henry Langley, gent., and Jane his wife, bap. at Shrawardine by mo Tim'y Hammond, Vicar of Holy Cross." These Langleys were descended from William Langley, who bought the site of the Shrewsbury Abbey in 1546. John Langley of Shrewsbury Abbey married Eleanor, daughter of Sir Henry Bromley of Shrawardine Castle (she died Aug. 20th, 1623). Their son Jonathan (born 1605), married Margaret, daughter of Sir Hugh Wrotesley of Wrotesley in Staffordshire, and had a son Henry, who was a knight in 1697. Henry's son Jonathan, christened at Shrawardine, was Sheriff of Shropshire in 1680, and had an only daughter, who married Thomas Thornes of Shelvoek. (Blakeway's Sheriffs of Shropshire).

² In 1621 a Reignold Evans held lands in Coleham, Shrewsbury, and this may be a descendant.

² There is this entry in the Montford Register:—"1751 Dec. 9, James Spoke, serv^t in Shrawardine, sm^l Pox, buried."

Query? Was the Newcome who with a companion was condemned to death at the assizes held at Shrewsbury in March 1764, & afterwards executed, for robbing the house of Samuel Griffiths, Esq., of Dinthill of a large quantity of plate, &c., a relation of the Shrawardine Newcomes? ¹ Dec. 1st last entry in the handwriting of Adam Newling.

² The Rev. Adam Newling was a Cambridgeshire man, and was appointed Vicar of Montford in 1714, by John Bromley of Horseheath, Co. Cambridge, who had obtained by marriage the Shrawardine and Montford estates.

¹ Cf. Montford Register: "1732, Oct. 16, Nat. et Bapt. Gulielmus et Johannes Gemelli Fil. A. and E. Newling." The Rev. Edmund James and Mr. Henry Withington were among the six sponsors. John Newling lived at Shrewsbury first, and afterwards at Shrawardine, where he died. William lived at the Folley Farm, and died there Aug. 14. 1814, aged 81.

² The Rev. Charles Newling, eldest son of the late Rector of Shrawardine, was born in 1727. "April 7. Bapt. Carolus Fil. Adami Newling Vic. et Elizabethæ Uxoris, Nat. 22. Mart. Revdⁱ Edm. James de Shrawarden, et Joh¹ Fieldhouse de Shawbury et Jane Tonge vid. Predecessoris Fidejussores." Montford Registry. Was educated at Shrewsbury School, entering in 1739, and St. John's College, Cambridge (B. A. 1747), of which he became a Fellow. From 1754-70 he was Headmaster of Shrewsbury School; 1764-69 Rector of Pontesbury 2nd Portion; 1770-87 Rector of St. Phillip's, Birmingham, and Prebendary and Treasurer of Lichfield Cathedral; and 1772-87 Vicar of Westbury. He was also for some time Vicar of Bicton and Official and Ordinary of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury. He died at Westbury, March 17th, in the 60th year of his age. From his daughter's tombstone in the Churchyard we see, too, that he was "Domestic Chaplain to the Right Hon. George, Lord Ferrars de Chartley, and a magistrate for the Counties of Warwick and Salop."

² Thomas Goodall lived in the Rectory, where he kept the village shop, and farmed the glebe, entertaining the clergy on Sundays when they came over to take the single service of the day. On the appointment in 1829 of a resident curate at Shrawardine he had to leave, as the house was wanted for its proper use.

³ John Wingfield, whose handwriting first appears this year (May 1st), was born Aug. 11th, 1765, was Vicar of Montford from 1789 to his death on Sept. 8th, 1830, and curate of Shrawardine for the greater part of that time.

THE BERRINGTON LOVE FEAST.

BY THE REV. A. THURSBY-PELHAM, M.A.

Seal Robert by Gods divyne providence Lord Bushopp defaced. of Coven' and Lichfield To all whom theis Rob. Co: Likel. presents may concerne greetinge fforasmuch as there hath beene, tyme out of mynd, an auntient custome used w^{thin} the parishe of Berington in our diocese of Coventry and Lichfield that the parson of the said parish for the tyme beinge hath yearely upon Easter day feasted all the parishioners and Land-houlders w^{thin} that parishe wth a love-feast, the solempnyty of w^{ch} feast was ever yet performed in the Church (a thinge noe-lesse profane then irreligious) And whereas allso the said parishioners for the perpetuall establishment and better confirmac'on of their said custome have peticoned S^r Richard Lea Barronet patron of the said Rectorie that they the said parishioners may yearely and without molestac'on of him or the succeedinge incumbent freely enjoy the liberty thereof, he the said S^r Richard Lea hath condiscended to their request. Now the said parishioners doe humbly desire, that although we by our letter have prohibited the said Custome, to be maynetayned or observed in the Church (as beinge a thinge altogether unfitt to be performed in soe holy a place) yet, that by our confirmac'on under seale, wee would ratify and confirme the same for posterity unto them, Wee therefore at their humble petico'n doe by these presents pronounce the said custome to have beene, and to be due from the parson of Berington for the tyme beinge, to the said parishioners yearely And doe decree that the same be yearely tendred unto them by the said parson upon Munday in Easter weeke to be celebrated in any place convenyent for the same (the church only excepted), in as good and ample manner as at any tyme heretofore it hath beene usually celebrated. In witnes and confirmac'on of w^{ch} custome wee have hereunto put our hande and seale Episcopall: Geven at Newport this xxijth day of August An'o d'ni 1639 iuxta &c. and in the seaventh yeare of our translac'on.

"An Order about the Love Feast. Dated 1639."

THIS curious document is preserved in the parish chest in Berrington Church. It is given under the hand and seal of Robert (Wright), Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, dated at Newport, August 22, 1639. It quotes an ancient custom of the parish, which had been suppressed. From time immemorial it had been the custom that the Rector of Berrington should upon Easter Day feast all the parishioners and land-holders with a Love-feast within the church. We may suppose that the cheer had been too good, and the Love-feast was abolished by Episcopal authority. We should have imagined that, under these circumstances, the feast would have gone for ever. It was not so, however. The Church-people in Berrington did not see why abuse should sweep away use. Accordingly, through their powerful patron and local magnate, Sir Richard Lea, they petitioned the Bishop for the restoration of the Love-feast. We presume that the Rector concurred. The Bishop consents to Sir Richard's request, and confirms the custom for posterity. The Feast for the future must not be held in the church, "but is to be tendered to the parishioners by the Parson upon the Monday in Easter Week in any place convenient (the church only excepted) in so good and ample a manner as at any time heretofore it hath been usually celebrated."

The Feast was no doubt originally the Dedication Festival. Dedication Festivals were as a rule kept on a Sunday. The good people at Berrington may have selected the greatest of all Sundays for their parochial festival.

Mr. Bourne in his edition of Brand's Antiquities of the Common People, says, "In the southern parts of this nation, the most of country villages are wont to observe some Sunday in a more particular manner than the other common Sundays of the year, viz., the Sunday after the day of dedication. Then the inhabitants deck themselves in their gaudiest clothes, and have open doors, and splendid entertainments, for the reception and treating of their relations and friends, who visit them on that occasion, from each neighbouring town. The morning is spent for the most part in church. The remainder of the day is spent in eating and drinking, together with all sorts of rural pastimes and exercises, such as dancing on the green, wrestling, cudgelling, etc."

St. Gregory the Great gives an order to Mellitus, the Abbot, who accompanied Augustine to England in 590 A.D. "On the day of dedication, or the birthday of holy Martyrs, whose relics are there placed, let the people make to themselves booths of the boughs of trees, round about those very churches, which had been the temples of idols, and in a religious way to observe a feast; that beasts may no longer be slaughtered by way of sacrifice to the devil, but for their own eating, and the glory of God; and that when they are full and satisfied, they may return Him thanks who is the giver of all good things."

In the 28th Canon given under King Edgar, "Decent behaviour is enjoined at these Church Wakes. The people are commanded to pray devoutly at them, and not to betake themselves to drinking and debauchery."

Speght, in his glossary to Chaucer, says, "It was the manner in times past upon festival evens for parishioners to meet in their Church-houses, or Church-yards, and there to have a drinking-fit for the time. Here they used to end many quarrels between neighbour and neighbour. Hither came the wives in comely manner, and they which were of the better sort had their mantles carried with them, as well for show as to keep them from cold at the table. These mantles also did many use in the church at and other times."

When the order was made in 1627 and 1631, at Exeter and in Somersetshire, for the suppression of these dedication feasts, both ministers and people desired their continuance, not only for preserving the memorial of the dedication of their several churches, but for civilizing their parishioners, composing differences by the mediation and meeting of friends, increasing of love and unity by these feasts of charity, and for the relief and comfort of the poor. The people at Berrington, doubtless, were of the same mind as the people at Exeter and in Somerset. Their parishioners needed civilizing, differences had to be composed, love and unity needed to be increased, and the poor needed relief.

As it was then, so is it now. History repeats itself. Some forty years ago, the Love-feast having disappeared, Harvest Homes were originated in Shropshire. In a way they took the place of the ancient dedication feast. People are beginning to find the need of Parish Rooms. In old days they were called Church-houses. The Love-feast was held in them, and they were practically parish rooms. In America, as a rule, each Church has its Church-house and rooms for various parochial objects attached to it. Guild-feasts are held there. Such social gatherings in well regulated parishes still play their part in building up the spiritual life.

The Leas were lords of Berrington from the latter part of the 13th to the end of the 17th century. They came from Lee, near Pimhill, and were afterwards lords of Langley and Acton Burnell. The recumbent wooden effigy of a man habited in plate armour in the chancel of Berrington Church is probably a Lee. It belongs to the early part of the 15th century. The timber Manor House of the Lees' is on the south side of the church. Sir Richard Lea, the patron of the benefice in 1639, was the second Baronet. He suffered much in the cause of Charles I., and died just a month before the Restoration.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that the Love-feast came to an end during the Commonwealth, and was never again restored?

SELATTYN: A HISTORY OF THE PARISH.

BY THE HON. MRS. BULKELEY-OWEN.

IN the Blakeway MSS. we are told that there was a Suit before the Court of Marches concerning the Rectory of Selattyn, on August 9th, 1554.

It states that Robert Staney was deprived by Ecclesiastical law, and that Robert Ireland was instituted and inducted in his room by the order of the Court.

Robert Staney did not appear in obedience to the order, and he refused to quit, whereupon a further order was made to eject him, and he was committed to the Porter's custody.

The cause of offence is stated as "heretical pravity."

It is added that probably the order was not acted on, it may, however, explain why Robert Staney resigned the living.

1556.—J. Thomas. Is said to have been Rector, but we have no mention of him in any contemporary document, nor any other authority than the statement of Browne Willis. He was probably only Curate to Robert Ireland, who, as we have seen, resided at Denbigh.

1557.—Robert ap Howell. We do not know the exact date of his appointment, but we know it must have been before March, 1557, the date at which he began the first Parish Register of Selattyn.

His name does not occur in the First Fruits Composition records.

¹ I am indebted for this note to Henry Weyman, Esq., of Ludlow.
Vol. VII., 2nd S. BB

He was probably of the same family as the Powells of Park¹, Thomas Powell, Esq., being nominated overseer to his will.

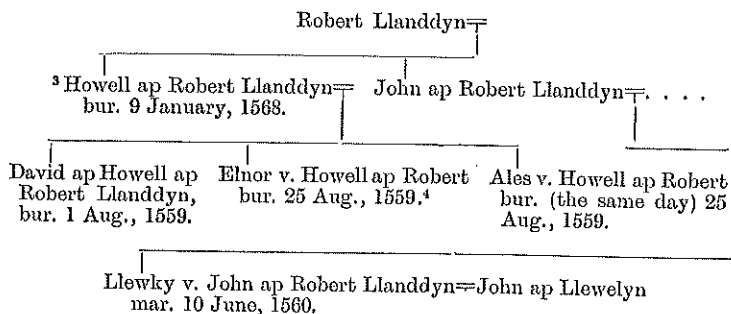

In the early part of Selattyn Register occur several named ap Howell, they are as follows. It is impossible to state their relationship, if any, to the Rector, but their godparents were of the chief families of the parish, and one of them, Gwenhwyvar lloid, is named in his will.

David ap Howell, alias barbor, bur. 30 April, 1557. =

David ap Howell ap John, bur. 19 Aug., 1559. =

Katherine v. Roger ap Howell buried 29 Dec., 1606

³ Howell ap Robert and Gwenhwyvar lloid were gossipps to Gwenhwyvar v. Hughe ap Meredyth, 24 Oct., 1561.

In the Oswestry Corporation Records "Hugh Edd, ap Ho'll of Porkington" was sworn burgess for himself and his children on 8th and 9th June, 1582.

Howell is not an uncommon Welsh name, neither is Gwenhwyvar, but there is mention of both in the will of "David ap Ievan, ap David ap Yellen David of St. Martyns." Proved in London 2 Sep., 1553. After bequeathing his body to the Parish Church and 2s. to the "high aulter" of St. Martyns, he leaves the rest of his "goodes & cattels" to his wife Gwenhwyar verch Howell, and his son John ap David. "Overseer, Edward ap Gr. Witnesses, Sir Hugh, Lewis Howell ap Thomas, David ap Richard with others."¹

It is quite possible that this lady may be the cousin referred to in Robert ap Howell's will, and that Robert Lloyd of Treflech may have been her second husband.

The Register tells us that "Robert ap Powell clerk, Parson of Silatton was buried the 8th day of April, 1578, at Oswestrie."

There is no record at Oswestry of his burial, there being no entries from the end of January, 1569, when "There endeth Sir Hughe Goughe's Register," and "there wanteth the register for eight yeares & fyve months," until 25 June, 1578, when "a true & perfect Register [was] made by Sir William Muckleston² Clerke, Curate of the Parish Church of Oswestree."

There must, I think, be an error in the date of the copy of Robert ap Howell's Will, it having been proved ten days before his burial. The original Will is lost.

The Will of "Sir Robert ap Howell. Clerke, parson of Silattn," 13th January, 1577, bequeaths

During the incumbency of Robert ap Howell there is no mention of a curate in the Register, though I think "Sir John Trevor" probably acted in that capacity.

Possibly earlier curates during the time of Robert ap Howell may be found in the nominations of John Laken.

² Probably Armenters. The name of John de Armenters occurs in a Will of Ct. of Husting, 1299. His own Will dated 20 July, 1306, bequeaths "60 marks sterling for the maintenance of a Chantry at the altar of S. Nicholas in the Church of All Hallows upon the Cellar," and bequests to three sons, Robert, Stephen, and Richard.

³ The Wottons were a civic family. William Wotton, Merchant, bequeaths tenements in three city parishes to Margaret his wife, with remainder to Nicholas his son, 24 Aug., 1391. Her Will is dated 5 Feb., 1404. Chrystopher Wotton "merchant taylor" bequeathes his lands and tenements in the city of London to Ioan his wife 20 Dec., 1571. (See Calendar of Ct. of Husting).

⁴ All Hallows the Great in Thames Street, called "ad fœnum," "because Hay was sold near thereunto at Hay Wharf." (Ibid, Bk. ii., p. 205).

We know nothing certain of Richard Price, except that he was deprived and imprisoned, and that he died "at his coming from prison." What his offence was is unrecorded. Was he suspected of favouring recusants or rebels?

A few years before John Price, the Vicar of Oswestry, was said to have concealed one "Hugh Owen, a rebel," and the interrogatories for his examination on 17 Oct., 1575,¹ are still in existence. It is quite possible that the Rector of Selattyn may have been some relation of his, and may have been concerned in some later plot.

His name occurs in an Oswestry Will dated 1580 in conjunction with that of John Price, Vicar of Oswestry.

This Will also supplies us with the name of the "Curate of Silattin," William Edwards.

The following extracts are interesting:—

In which of the Southwark Prisons, the Marshalsea, the King's Bench, or the Clink, Richard Price was confined we do not know.

If he was guilty of an ecclesiastical offence, he was probably in the Marshalsea.

The state of the Prisons at that time is too well known to need any description here; it is not surprising that his incarceration caused his death; gaol fever was rife. Stowe tells us how, in 1579, the Lords of the Privy Council were petitioned "to take some order for the enlarging of the rooms for the preservation of the Prisoners lives" in the King's Bench.

¹ David Stanney, Gent., was bur. at Oswestry 29 May, 1606.

⁴ Grifffith Kyffin was bailiff of Oswestry 27 Elizth., 1584-5, and on 30 January, 1592. (See Byegones, 1877, Oswes. Corp. Rec.)

His death is thus entered in Selattyn Register:—

Richard Pryce, Clerke, parson of Silatton died at Southwerk in London at his coming from prison & was buried on the 8th daye February, 1587.

His will is as follows:—

Browne Willis was mistaken in putting William Horton's institution by the Queen after that of the succeeding Rector, Thomas Torporley, and in stating that it was upon the latter's deprivation. We have no record of his ever having been deprived. The mistake probably originated in a clerical error in a MS. book at St. Asaph Palace, the entry in which is as follows—

Tho. Torperly M.A. May 1588 on ye Pres. of Fr Albany tho' Will Horton had got institution on ye Queen title by lapse Aug. 1586 on Torperley's deprivation.

It should, of course, have been on Richard Prices's deprivation.

If the date (Aug. 1586) was correct, the living of Selattyn was vacant for nearly a year, and Richard Price was imprisoned for a year and a half.

We have no information concerning William Horton, except that Browne Willis states he was Vicar of Oswestry in 1587. His name does not occur either in the Registers of Oswestry or of Selattyn, and we have no record of his death. A few years later the name occurs in Shrewsbury Registers. That of St. Mary's states :—

Mr Richard Horton bur. 24 July 1608.¹

Mrs Mary Horton & Mr Edward Baugh mar. 29 May 1695.

And S. Julian's has

Mr Fras. Horton & Mrs Mary Bannister mar. 14 April 1686

William Horton more probably came from Cheshire, like Peter Brereton, the Vicar of Oswestry 50 years before.

We know from "Inquis. p. m., 4 Hen. VI." that Roger de Horton held land in Coole, Co. Chester, and that he had a son and heir William.

Also that a licence was granted 21 Henry VII. to Sir Roger Horton to enter on the Barony of Malpas.

¹ "Rychard Horton fletcher" was chosen "sargient to the Baylyfe" in 1585 and in 1591. (Shrop. Arch. Trans., vol. iii., pp. 304, 323. The Fletchers (i.e., Arrowmakers) Coopers and Bowyers Company of Shrewsbury dates 27 Hen. VI., 1449, Ibid., vol. vi., p. 186.

John Horton held Coole. His Inquis. p. m., dated 21 Henry VIII., states that he died 9th December, leaving Roger Horton his son and heir.

Ralph Horton held Coole, his Inquis. p. m. is dated 24 Eliz. He leaves Richard Horton his son and heir.

Richard Horton holds Coole, his Inquis. p.m. is dated 6 Jac I., and he leaves Ralph son and heir¹.

The fact that one of William Horton's sureties in the Composition Book bears the Cheshire name of Massie seems to point to his connection with that county.

1588.—Thomas Torporley. Oppidan of Shrewsbury School (in Class 5) 1562; Student of Ch. Ch., Oxford; B.A. 19 Feb., 1573-4; M.A. 27 June, 1577; Rector of Didcot, Berks, 1581; of Selattyn 1588; of Liddington, Wilts, 1590; and of Great Stambridge, Essex, 1591.²

We learn from the public records that "Thomas Torporley Clerk" was admitted to the Rectory of Selattyn, then vacant, "8th May, 1588."³ He was presented to the living by the patron, Francis Albany. On the Selattyn Register of the family. "William Dickin¹ and Margaret Torporley, late of the Parish of Whitechurch, were married the 27th daye April, 1589, in the Churche of Silatton."

This probably alludes to the Parish of Whitchurch, in Shropshire, the Registers of which, unfortunately, only date from 1634. Whitchurch, the ancient Parish Church of Denbigh, was only so called in comparatively modern times; it was then known as Llanfarchell. Its Registers are also of more recent date.

Thomas Torporley, being a native of Shrewsbury, the guilds doubtless supply us with his father's name, 6 Eliz. (1563-4):—

Georgie Torporle of the towne of Salop glover, now occupyeinge the occupacon trad & mystery of silk buttons makyng wth in the towne of Salop by his humble and truwles suit sondry tymes, made freeman for xxxvj^s viii^d in forme followinge that he may lawfully occupye the making & selling of silk buttons, silk lases, gold wire and thrid as John Beynyon of the same, but not to deal in any other wares or merchaundise.²

Mr. Thomas Asheton, the first Master of Shrewsbury Grammar School, was his surety.

George Torporley was one of the Bailiffs of Shrewsbury who set his seal to the articles and rules of the Glovers' Co., 1st August, 6th Elizabeth.³

It would be interesting to know if Nathaniel Torporley, Astronomer, who is described by Sir Edward Sherburne in his appendix to his translation of Manilius on the Sphere, as "Nathaniel Torporley, an Englishman born in Shropshire . . . sometime Amanuensis to the famous Vieta," was a relation to our Rector. They were contemporaries. Nathaniel was born 1563; entered Christ Church, Oxford, 1579; and died 1632. He wrote a treatise entitled "Diclides Cælo Metricæ seu Valvæ Astronomicæ Universales," and was paid a pension for several years by Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland.

He bequeathed a clock and his valuable library of books to Sion College; the former has disappeared, and there is no account of his life there.

His will, which is nuncupative, is dated 14th April, 1632.²

Witness hereof John Downes, John Slater, John Spencer.

On 7 June 1632, Admon. was granted to Elizabeth Paine niece, & subsequently on 6 Jany. 1633 to Susanna Tasker.

We shall see in the life of the next Rector, Rowland Tasker, that these two ladies were his wife and daughter.

Selattyn Register tells us that—

Thomas Torporley Clerk late p'son of Silatton died the 23rd daye of August, 1592, in a parish called [] in Essex & buried about that tyme.

Great Stambridge was the name of the parish. Its register has—Buried 1592. August 29th Thomas Torporley.

He appears to have resigned the living of Selattyn upon going to Essex, and probably had something to do with the recommendation of his successor.

Rowland Thasker is mentioned in the Register of Munslow, Co. Salop, as Minister in 1570 and 1573, and on 6th January, 1572, Pitchford Register informs us that he was inducted as Rector there. He seems to have resided mostly at Pitchford, his five children having been baptized there.

There is also the entry of the burial at Pitchford of "Edward Tasker at 96 or thereabouts, bur. 12 Oct., 1597." This was probably his father.

The arms of Tasker are given in the Heralds' Visitation of Shropshire,³ Or a fesse between 3 lions ramp. sable. It will be noted that in the record of the burial of Edward Tasker his name is spelt without the h; they are therefore probably of the family given in the Visitation, which may account for the Rector's eldest son being baptized Adam.

The Visitation states that Thomas Adams, second son of John Adams of Pontesbury, Co. Salop, married Alice, d. of John Forster, and heir to her mother, Alice Tasker of Warr. The descendants of Thomas Adams were called Adams alias Tasker, and his great-grandsons Thomas and Roger Adams, alias Tasker, are described as of London.

Parson of ye forsaid Parishe

Adam Browne. Thomas Madocks Churchwardens there.

The marriage of Elizabeth Thasker to John Payne in 1596 proves that her father occasionally visited Selattyn. We do not know who her husband was, or if he was related to William Payne, haberdasher, of London, her father's surety in the Composition Book.

Nor do we know what became of Rowland Thasker's sons. Probably it was his second son, Thomas Thasker, who was buried 19th September, 1654, at Clungunford, Co. Salop, and whose daughter, "Margaret, daughter of Thomas & Elizabeth Tasker," was baptized there 14th December, 1645.

The same Register tells us "Margaret Tasker of Rowton widow" was buried 11 July, 1646.

The only other Shropshire entries of the family that I have found are—1640. John Tasker parson of Abdon & Joane d. of Adam Millichopp were married 19 Sept^r.

He only survived his marriage five months, for 1640. John Tasker bur. 26 Feb.

In Shrewsbury School Register we find—

Rowland Thasker entered 7 August 1601.

He could hardly have been the Rector of Selattyn's son, as his admission fee being 2s. he was not a native of Shropshire. Thomas and John Thasker entered in 1594, and were natives of the county, their fees being 1s. each.¹

Selattyn Register tells us that—

Rowland Thasker Clerke, parson of Silattin died the last day of January & and was buried the 1st day of February at Pitchford, 1599.

And the Pitchford Register corroborates that fact. Unfortunately his will is not to be found.

1600.—Henry Johns, M.A. June 1st.² Browne Willis tells us that he was presented to the Rectory of Selattyn by Sarah Albany. She was the widow of Francis Albany, Sheriff of Shropshire 1595, who was buried at Whittington, 15 Nov., 1597.

From the bequests in the will of Henry Johns to the Church and poor of Llanrwst, he was probably a native of that parish, but I have not been able to find that any relationship existed between him and his namesake Dr. Henry Jones, sinecure Rector of Llanrwst 1573-1591. The will of the latter, proved by his nephew Edward Griffiths 6 Feb., 1591,³ makes bequests to divers relatives, but to none bearing the name of Johns or Jones.

I think we may conclude that Henry Johns, Rector of Selattyn, belonged to the family of Johnes of Llyfnant, in the parish of Llanefydd, Co. Denbigh,¹ from the fact that William Anwyl (one of his executors) was his cousin.

Jane Johnes of Llyfnant married William Anwyl towards the end of the 16th century.

The arms of Johnes of Llyfnant are Vert a stag trippant arg. attired and lang. gules. This family descend from Llywelyn ap Sissyllt, King of Wales 1032-1064.

The Register of Oxford University tells us that "Henry Johnes Co. Denbigh pleb. f." matriculated as a member of Brasenose² on 10 August, 1582, aged 20, and that he was "Scholaris Dr. Harvey." It also states that one Henry Jones of Jesus College was admitted to the B.A. degree 12 Feb., 1585-6. These may be the same men, and probably refer to our Rector.

He married Elin, daughter of Thomas Loker of the Marsh, near Wenlock. Her mother was Katherine, daughter of Thomas or Edward Smalman of Wilderhope, Co. Salop.³

Her brothers Francis and William Loker, and her brother-in-law, Hugh Morris of Oswestry, were executors of her husband's will. The Parish Register of Much Wenlock tells us that Francis Loker "was a Bayliff peere, and when he was first Bayliff, did sett up Morning Prayer in this Church at Six of the Clock evry morning."⁴

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Johns disappears from Selattyn Register, and we know nothing further of her or her children.

1610.—James Wilding. Born Nov., 1577. Christ's College Cambridge; B.A., 1600—1; M.A., 1604.¹

The Bishop's Certificates, St. Asaph, tell us "3rd July, 1610, James Wilding, M.A., admitted to the Rectory of Selattyn."²

The Register has the following entry 1610:—"Under me James Wilding, Clerk, Mr of Arte, p'son there £90. 16th of June, aforesaid, entered possession, etc."

He was presented to the Living by Francis Albany, Lord of the Manor, the second who bore the name of Francis.

James Wilding was doubtless the son of a Freeman of the Merchant Guilds of Chester, for we find that in 9, James I. [1611-12] "James Wildinge preacher", took up his freedom at Chester. This he could not have done unless he had been the son of a Freeman.

Richard Wildinge (Wright) is the earliest of the family who is recorded as having taken up his freedom in 1538. The next Wildinge who became a freeman was Robert (Mercer), 7 Elizabeth [1564-5,] followed by Alexander³ (Shoemaker) 9 Eliz., William (Glover), and John (Innkeeper), 15 Eliz., Richard (Shoemaker), ¹ Foster's Index Ecclesiasticus, M.S., for which we are indebted to W. Duncombe Pink, Esq.

² Public Record Office.

³ The Will of Alexander Wilding, of Much Hoole, dated 1602, is at Chester.

37 Eliz. John (Tailor), 41 Eliz., William¹ (Hatmaker) 43 Eliz. I give these names as showing that the family of Wilding were represented in most of the Chester Guilds.²

In 1669 we find one Robert Wilding, a rich merchant of London, son of John Wilding of Chester, making bequests to his cousins, the widow and son of the Rector James Wilding, but of this later on.

The above is, I think, conclusive proof that James Wilding was a native of Chester. He was probably educated at the King's School there; his name does not appear in the Admission Book, but between the years 1582-85 there is a gap in the School Entries,

We cannot trace any relationship between the Wildings of Chester and those of Shrewsbury. The first who appears in the guilds of the latter town is "William Wildinge sonne to Richard Wyldinge of Behecot, Co. Salop, husbandma' made freeman for xxxvj^s viij^d"³ 1 Eliz. [1558], followed by Richard⁴ son of Homfre Wylding of Salop, Corvesar, who was apprentice in 1569-70 and freeman of the Mercers Co. in 1578. His son Edward⁵ was apprentice 1618, and freeman 1626.

The Shropshire Wildings appear all to have come from Betchcote, an annex of the manor of Condover; in "1598 Edward Wyldynge sonne of Thomas Wyldinge of Behcote, Co. Salop, yoman, comfet maker, made freeman as a forryner xxxvj^s viij^d"⁶

The family have continued in Shrewsbury down to the present century; a tablet in St. Chad's records their deaths as late as 1849. Many of them were in Holy Orders, but as they do not concern the Rectors of Selattyn we cannot follow up their history.

We must return to "James Wilding, preacher." This description proves him to have been a man of some ability. It will be remembered that Queen Elizabeth issued proclamations in 1558 and 1577 by which she commanded the Bishops that "no persons be suffered to preach or teach . . . but such as are licensed . . . and where the incumbents were under qualified for preaching, the reading of the Homilies, pursuant to the Injunctions, should be enjoined on them."¹

King James issued a similar order in 1622, bidding "the Archbishops & Bishops . . . be more wary & choice in their licensing of preachers," and ordering "that no parson, vicar, curate or lecturer shall preach any sermon hereafter upon Sundays or holydays in the afternoon . . . but upon some part of the Creed, 10 Commandments, or the Lord's Prayer (funeral sermons only excepted), and that those preachers be most encouraged and approved of who spend the afternoon's exercise in the examination of the children in their Catechism." Disobedience to these directions was punished by suspension for a year and a day.²

James Wilding probably married Prudence Dennar shortly after his appointment to Selattyn, for the Register records the birth of Anne, the eldest of his ten children, on 13 Sept., 1612. We learn the maiden name of his wife from the following entry in Selattyn Register:—"1631, Barbara Dennar, a mayd, sister to Mrs. Wilding was buried the xxivth daye of Aprill."

He held the living for 48 years; his name occurs, to his eternal disgrace, amongst the few in St. Asaph Diocese, who subscribed to the Solemn League and Covenant in the time of the Commonwealth, and were therefore not ejected from their Livings.

It has been stated that he sat amongst the Westminster Assembly of Divines in 1644, but that is an error, for his name is not in the list.¹ He, however, conformed to its decrees, which substituted the Directory for the Book of Common Prayer, on 3 January, 1644.

What direct part James Wilding took in the Revolution, we do not know, but he was the tutor of the Parliamentary General, Thomas Mytton of Halston. An account in MS. of Halston² says "Mr. Wilding, rector of Selattyn, was a great friend to the father of our hero [Thomas Mytton] and made frequent visits to Halston. He soon became much attached to the son, and at the request of his parents, undertook the care of his education."

The principles of the Rector must have been a sore trouble to the loyal squires of Porkington and Pentrepant.

We owe to him, however, the thanks of all succeeding generations for the accuracy with which the Parish Registers were kept, at a time when so many are missing.

The silver Chalice still in use was presented to the Church in 1621, during his incumbency.

The entry of his death, which occurred two years before the Restoration is thus described in the Register:—

February, 1658. James Wilding Mr of Arte of Christ's Coll, Cambridge having lived in actual possession of the Rectory of this parish fourty and eight yeares eight months & 15 dayes & being of the age of fourscore yeares, three months & eight dayes died peacably in the Lord the eleventh daye & was buried the fifteenth.

His Will is not to be found. Prudence Wilding his wife (who survived him for 16 years), and his eldest

Robert Wilding's pedigree is as follows:—

John Wilding² of Chester, gent. = Margaret, d. of — Parker of Lyme, Co. Chester.

Robert Wilding of Hackney = (1) Martha, probably d. of Mr. George Holgate.
Co. Middlesex. = (2) Katherine, d. of John Robinson of Gravesend, Co. Kent, Esq.
= (3) Anne, d. of Sir John Trevor of Trevalyn, Co. Denbigh, Kt.

The Hackney Pedigree gives the Arms as "Arg, a cinquefoil gules, on a chief gu. a demilion ramp. issuant, Arg. a mullet for difference. Crest: a dragon's head erased, Vert." But it adds that there is no proof of them.

Robert Wilding though a Puritan like the rest of his family, assisted at the Restoration of King Charles II. and was at that time Col. of the Regiment of Tower Hamlets.⁴ His brother in law Sir John Trevor had married Ruth, daughter of John Hampden of Great Hampden, Co. Bucks, great niece of Oliver Cromwell, and he was Secretary of State, and a member of the Privy Council of Charles II.

The following entry from the books of Christ's Coll., Cambridge, tells us that Coventry was the place where Thos. Wilding received his primary education.

1632, Apr. 26.

Thomas Wilding, Jacobi filius, natus Sillatenae in agro Salopiensi, literis institutis Coventriae a M^{ro} White, anno ætatis 16^o admissus est pensionarius sub M^{ro} Fenwicke.¹

Selattyn Register tells us that three months after his father's death, Thomas Wilding, Master of Arts of Christ's College in Cambridge was admitted and had possession given him of the Rectory of Selattyn in ye County of Salop by Thomas Lloyd Esq. Lord of the Mannor of Whittington, the xxxth daye of May, 1659.

Mr. Richard Wilson, Minister of the Gospel.

Richard ap Thomas and Roger Hussey, Churchwardens, and David ap Robert, Sexton of this parish and others being witnesses.

Browne Willis states that Thomas Wilding was ordained by Bishop Griffith in 1666. The accuracy of this date seems extremely improbable. Thomas Wilding must have been well known to the Bishop, who had been Rector of the neighbouring parish of Llanymynech since 1633, and who after his eviction from the Rectory by the Puritans had continued to reside in the parish "disputing with Itinerants, and keeping up the Offices and Ceremonials of the Church."² It is most unlikely that the Bishop would have allowed a man who was not in Holy Orders to have charge of Selattyn Parish until the year of his (Bishop Griffith's) death.

On the 26th February, 1662, Thomas Wilding and Sarah Gardiner, of St. Chad's Parish in Shrewsbury, were married at Selattyn.

The Gardiners are said in the Heralds' Visitation of Shropshire to have originally come from Lancashire.

² Walker's Sufferings of the Clergy.

One Richard Gardner appears in the Merchant Guilds of Shrewsbury as "dyer & free of the Draper's Co." as early as 1570. He was an active member of the Corporation, seeking to bring a good supply of fresh water to the town, and to furnish it with "a greate store of see cole."¹ In 1603 he wrote a treatise entitled "Profitable Instructions for the Manuring, Sowing and Planting of Kitchen Gardens."²

The father of Thomas Wilding's wife bore also the name of Richard, he was a Dyer and Cloth Worker, and brother to John Gardner of Sansaw. He died in 1646.

The Arms of Gardiner are "Per fess arg. & sa, a pale counterchanged & 3 Gryphons heads erased of the 2nd."³

The Rev. Thomas Wilding was evidently fond of farming, for not content with the Glebe Lands, we find he had a lease of the farm of Llwyn y Coppa, belonging to Dr. Powell of Park, for 21 years, from 25 March, 1671.⁴

His six children were all christened at Selattyn; the eldest son James, took Holy Orders and became Rector of Penegos, Co. Montgomery, in 1696. The future of the other five I do not know.

Thomas Wilding was made Canon of St. Asaph in 1672, he died the 4th and was buried the 6th April, 1678, at Selattyn. His Will is not in existence, but there is at St. Asaph the letter of administration to it by "Sarah Wildinge widow of Thomas Wilding, Cleric, decd." dated 17 Nov. 1679.

PROVISION OF THE SACRAMENTAL ELEMENTS.

BY THE HON. AND REV. GILBERT H. F. VANE, M.A., VICAR OF HIGH ERCALL.

"BULL, Sherlock, Beveridge, and other Anglican divines, who belong more to the seventeenth than to the eighteenth century, had expressed much concern at the unfrequency of celebrations of the Eucharist as compared with a former age."¹ The Celebrations at High Ercall were, however, a little more often than quarterly at the time at which the Churchwardens' Accounts open, for charges for bread and wine for Communion at Christmas, Palm Sunday, Good Friday, Easter Day, Whitsuntide, and Michaelmas are usually found in them from 1687 onwards, together with the Churchwardens' charges for the expenses of fetching the wine from Shrewsbury. In 1687 the whole expense was £2 11s. 11d.; in 1701, £2 12s. 8d.; in 1704, £3 4s. 10d.; in 1726 and 1727, £6 17s. 2d.

1718.	for Bread and two bottles of wine for the Sacrament...	00 . 04 . 06

In 1716 Low Sunday and Trinity Sunday are added to the list of days when the Holy Communion was celebrated. In 1735 appears the following "Memorandome":

It is agreed on by ye parishioners . . . that Every Quantity of Wine yt is delivered at the Church for ye use of ye Sacrament shall be put Down in the Weekly Booke & the Churchwardens Accounts to be answerable to that.

And following this is this curious record, for the years 1735, 1736:—

Wine at Whitsuntide	5 bottles.
Wine at Michaelmas	5 bottles.
Wine at Christmas	10 bottles.
Brought by Charles Dixon.
Wine at Easter	13 bottles.
Wine at Whitsuntide	5 bottles.
baught by W. Rodenhurst.

And in 1747:—

pd towards the year's wine to Mr Wolley, }	02 . 04 . 03
being 3 Doz. & 3 quts. }

As the other Churchwarden paid for wine in this same year £2 3s. 6d., and as there were eight Celebrations, the wine must have cost two shillings and three pence per quart, having advanced slightly in price since 1707 and 1719 (vid. sup.). Very nearly five quarts, too, must have been used at each Celebration, at a cost to the parish each time of almost exactly eleven shillings. So also in 1758 "bread for eight Sacrem'ts" cost two shillings, wine for the year £3 19s. 9d., and "for going to Salop to pay for the wine" twice, two shillings. To these expenses, already sufficiently large, we must add that in 1761 "6 Loves of Bred for 2 Sacrements" cost sixpence.

Now, as the parish contains at this day about 1,700 souls, very widely scattered over an area of nearly 12,000 acres, and is never likely to have contained more, it is obvious that in the middle of the last century either the parishioners presented themselves at the altar in exceedingly large numbers, or else that both bread and wine were disposed of in some illegitimate manner. The latter, we fear, was the case; because, although the odious sacramental test was yet to survive for many a long year, and though during the period of the Reformation, and for some time after, stated attendance at the Holy Communion was regarded not only as a religious duty, but as an ordinary sign of membership of the National Church, old inhabitants of High Ercall have preserved the tradition that it was customary until about 1826 that at each Celebration the clergyman, the two Churchwardens, and the clerk, each "had to their own use" a bottle of wine, in addition to which a loaf or two of bread was given away as a perquisite to those who furnished this element.

In 1756 appears this note :—

It was agreed that the Churchwardens for the time to come should have at their choice either the Bottles or Four Shillings Each Year for Bringing the Wine for the Sacraments to the Church . . . & not to make any other Charge to the Parish.

Bottles were apparently worth something more in those days than they are now; for in 1766 Mr. Flint was paid "for wine and Bottles" £4 8s. 3½d. However, the Churchwardens seem to have preferred their four shillings a year, which was not long before it increased to five, while in 1813 "5 Journeys for wine" were charged ten shillings, and in 1818, twelve journeys twenty-four shillings. In 1838 wine cost almost exactly double what it had done in 1747, being now four shillings and fourpence halfpenny per quart. Bread, too, has varied much in price, for while a loaf in 1761 cost a penny, in 1780 "a strike of Flower for Wm. Allen in distress," cost six shillings. I have not noted, however, any entry of expenditure on bread between 1768, when the cost for one year was one shilling and ninepence, and 1816, when "Bread for two Sacraments" cost two shillings, so that the cost of bread at High Ercall at the beginning of the century, when wheat was at the famine price of £5 19s. 6d. per quarter, is unrecorded by the wardens. Entries in the Overseers' books, however, show that those officers in 1800 spent on flour for the poor over £186, that a strike of flour cost then as much as £1 and even more, or a sack £4 10s. 0d., and that loaves were sixpence, ninepence, and a shilling apiece. These prices contrast strangely with those attained in the markets in the week ending October 20, 1894, when the average of English wheat sank to its minimum recorded, viz., seventeen and sixpence per quarter of 480 lbs.

POSTSCRIPT TO THE PAPER ENTITLED AN INVENTORY TAKEN AT PARK HALL
IN 1761.

By STANLEY LEIGHTON, M.P., F.S.A.

SINCE writing the paper which appeared in the last Part¹ of these Transactions, the following allusion to the Gatehouse at Park, which no longer exists, has been brought to my notice. It is an extract from the Mytton MSS., copied by Mrs. Childe of Kyre Park, in 1886.

In Evelyn's Forest Trees (Evelyn and Hunter, Book III., p. 196, ed. 1812), occurs the following :—

There is somewhere in Wales an inscription cut in the wood of an old beam, thus :—

Sexaginta pedes fuerant in stipite nostro
Exceptâ comâ, quæ speciosa fuit.

This must needs have been a noble tree, but not without later parallels.

I now give the extract from the Mytton MSS. :—

The Welsh Beame here mentioned by Mr. Evelyn (Evelyn's Forest Trees, p. 82-163) is in ye gatehouse of Thomas Powell of ye Parke in ye co' of Salop Esq. and serves for ye out Basis or ceiling of the 2nd storey thereof, along which the following verses were neatly carved, but some of ye letters are now defaced by time and weather (being 136 years since ye building was erected) however with ye assistance of ye s^d Mr Powell I have faithfully transcribed them from the original piece of timber and are inserted here. This day of September A.D. 1708, per me Martyn Baldwyn.

En ego que firmis steteram Radicibus olim Silvarum Dominus fertilitate mea.
 Ictibus heu crebris cecidi pulcherrima quercus Incumbo saxis pondere pressa domus.
 Sexaginta pedes fuerant in stipite nostro
 Excepta coma que speciosa fuit.
 Non facies formosa potest producere vitam,
 Non genus egregium cum fera fata vocant.
 Quare ne rebus nimium tu fide secundis
 Felix quisquis agis tempore cuncta ruunt.

The change from the feminine to the masculine gender, and the apparent false quantity will be noticed. Whether the fault lay in the author of the verses or in the transcriber of the defaced letters I cannot say. I will only give a paraphrase of the Latin :—

Lo I who once stood deeply rooted in the land,
 The Lord of all the Forest trees, I trow,
 A mighty oak, have fallen by the woodman's hand,
 And I'm the stringcourse of a Gatehouse now.
 Sixty feet in length my measure,
 Undecayed by time or storm,
 But my crown of leafy treasure
 Was the glory of my form.
 The fairest face will not the cruel fates beguile,
 Nor pride of ancient birth prolong life's years.
 Then do not trust too much to fortune's favouring smile,
 Her fickle smile will one day turn to tears.

I cannot suppose that the frontage of the Gatehouse extended the length of 60 feet, but possibly this "noble tree" was sawn into two beams of 20 feet for the front and rear of the building, and two of 10 feet for the sides. I am not aware of the exact situation of the Gatehouse, but I presume that it stood near the front of the present hall.

THE OTTLEY PAPERS RELATING TO THE CIVIL WAR.

EDITED BY WILLIAM PHILLIPS, F.L.S.

My original design was to print these papers in their proper chronological order, but owing to a misplaced packet containing some interesting documents having come into my possession after those in Vol. VI. were printed, it is found necessary to interpolate here a few belonging to an earlier date, a course, I think, preferable to forming an appendix.

These earlier papers afford an opportunity of introducing matter from other sources, which will aid us in forming a more complete conception of the incidents connected with the King's visit to Shrewsbury on the 20th of August.

In the first of these we are taken back to the 8th of August, 1642, fourteen days before the King erected his Standard at Nottingham, and are introduced to the loyal men of Shropshire who signed the "Declaration and Protestation," which carried so much weight with it as to hasten that hostile and momentous manifesto.

LXV. DECLARATION AND PROTESTATION OF THE GENTLEMEN OF SALOP.

The declaracon and protestacon agreed upon by the Graund Jury at the Assizes¹ held for the County of Salop the Eighth

The influence which these loyal Declarations exercised on the King's affairs is well known. He immediately afterwards dispatched a Commission to Mr. Ottley to embody a force of 200 foot to secure Shrewsbury, which step in its turn influenced the wavering Corporation so far as to lead them to pass an order on the 15th September, "That if the King's majesty come to this town, He shall have free access into it, and the town will make the best enterteynment these troublesome times aforde." On Monday the 19th, Charles was so far on his way that he delivered the following speech at Wellington at the head of his army, having previously made his well-known Protestation.

His Ma'ts Speech before His Protestacon in the head of His Army after the reading His Orders for Marshall Discipline, on Monday the 19th of September [1642].

GENTLEMEN,

You have heard these Orders read. Tis your part in your several places to observe them exactly. The tyme cannot be long before Wee come to Action, therefore you have the more reason to bee carefull, and I must tell you I shall bee very seveare in the punishing of those of what Condition soever, who transgress these Instructions. I cannot suspect your Courage and Resolution; your Conscience and Loyalty hath brought you hither, to fight for your Religion, your King, and the Lawes of the Land. You shall meete with noe Enemyes but Traytors, most of them Brownists, Anabaptists, and Atheists, such who desire to destroy both Church and State, and those who have already condemned you to ruine for being Loyall to Us. That you may see what use I meane to make of your labour, if itt please God to bless itt with Success, I have thought fitt to publish my Resolution to you in a Protestation, which when you have heard me make you will believe you cannot fight in a better quarrell, in which I promise to live and dye with you.

The next day he entered Shrewsbury, and took up his abode at the Council House. We owe the most graphic account of his entry to Sir Edward Nicholas, who was an eye-witness of the scene, in a letter to Sir William Boswell, resident at the Hague.

His Majesty arrived here yester-night; the High Sheriff Sir John Weild [Weld] attending him from Wellington with a train of thirty-four liveries. He was received near this town by three fair foot companies of the trained bands, and a hundred horse; afterwards by the Mayor, Aldermen, and liveries, all ranked in a very comely manner; they and all the people shouting with great joy throughout the whole town to the Court gates. After his Majesty there entered the Banner Royal at the head of the Lord General's regiment, then the cannon, munition, and six foot regiments more, which are quartered about the town.¹

On the 23rd the King went to Chester, returning on the 27th to Shrewsbury, and on the following day met a large concourse of people who had been summoned by the High Sheriff to attend him. A contemporary who was present gives us the following account:—

On Tuesday last, at night, his Majesty came safe to Shrewsbury from Chester. And upon warrant, granted out the Friday before, most part of the gentry, clergy, freeholders, and substantial inhabitants of the county, appeared before him last Wednesday at Shrewsbury, in a meadow called the Gay, where his Majesty and the Prince came in person, and made a short speech, which, the crowd being great, I could hear little of, but the substance of that he intended to speak was put in writing and was read to the people, which was to this effect: That such was the insolences of a rebellious and malignant party against him, who had robbed and spoiled him of his goods, and kept his revenues from him, and had now set forth an army marching against him, that now he was enforced to desire the aid and relief of his good subjects to supply him in this necessity for the defence and safety of his person, the preservation of the true religion and maintenance of our laws and liberties, hoping they would be as liberal to their abilities in supplying him as others that were grown wanton with plenty had been bountiful to maintain the war against him; but yet rather than he would put too heavy pressure upon his good subjects he would melt down his own plate and sell and mortgage his land to maintain his just rights and ours. There was no money or plate parted with that I did see, for his Majesty referred it to his High Sheriff and other Commissioners to use the time and method they thought fit, and so we should be called again to express our affections to them. The Lord grant us faith and constancy to undergo all troubles that lie upon us, and send a happy and speedy reconciliation betwixt Prince and people to God's glory and our comfort.¹

On the 12th of October, the King left Shrewsbury for Bridgnorth, on his way to Oxford; but before dismissing this memorable visit I must reproduce a letter from Mr. Basil Waring, a native of Shrewsbury, which contains some interesting facts in relation to it:—

SIR,

My respects to you. I give you many thanks for your good remembrance of me. I could not write to you an answer by the same carrier, because they did not come of the latest unto me, and I was mightily employed about the King's business, I being an officer of the Mayor's. The King did go from hence on Wednesday last to Bridgnorth, and some of his foot soldiers did march yesterday to Stourbridge, in Worcestershire.

¹ Some late Occurences in Shropshire, &c., London, printed for H. Blunden. Oct. 5th, 1642 (King's Papers, Brit. Mus. 77-4. See Phillips's Civil War vol. ii., p. 18).

The King is about 16000 strong of foot, besides horse, and every day more and more come to him, by reason (as we are informed about us) the Parliament forces do so plunder as they go. And the King hath commanded that no plundering shall be at all, for he did cause Sir Robert Heath, who is now made Lord Chief Justice of England, to sit with a Commission of Oyer and Terminer, in our town, where six of the King's soldiers were cast for plundering and stealing.

The Mint is come to our town, and one Master Bushell doth coin every day; for abundance of plate is sent into the King from the several counties about us, and a great deal of plate comes daily out of Wales and Cornwall to be coined here. Also the press for printing is come to this town, and this day they are setting of it up in some vacant rooms in my house.

Sir Richard Newport is made a Lord; he hath given the King 10,000 [it was 6,000] pounds. The King would have knighted the Mayor, but he refused it.

The last Sunday the King took a protestation, and the Sacrament upon it, in St. Mary's Church, in our town, to defend the true Protestant religion, established by Queen Elizabeth and his Royal father.

We hear his Majesty on Tuesday last, with his army, were at Birmingham, Prince Rupert demanding 2,000 pounds, or he would plunder the town; but most of the inhabitants were [before] fled to Coventry. Upon Thursday he marched to Meriden, three miles off Coventry, and intends (as we are informed by divers reports) to march towards Banbury, and so to Oxford; for his resolution it is thought, is to march to London or to Windsor, or thereabouts. God of his mercy turn all to good and peace of this Kingdom, and deliver us from the misery of Civil War. Thus with love to all our friends I rest,

Yours to his power

Shrewsbury, Oct. 18, 1642.

BASIL WARING.¹

While the King was at Shrewsbury the followers of his army were not unoccupied. Taking advantage of the concentration of all the forces at the capital of the county, they are making raids on the innocent inhabitants in the outlying districts, as will be seen in the next letter.

As a small detail in the military arrangements during the King's visit the following should have a place :—

PROCLAMATION.

All gentlemen and Souldiers within the towne & liberties or thereabouts for the preservation of his majesties sacred person, The true protestant Religion, the liberty of the subject the lawfull Priviledges of the honourable houses of Parliament lett them be ready for the peace of this towne and County at the lawfull warning of Captain ffrancis Ottley his Drome [Drum] against all sedition tumults or rebellious force according to his majesties late proclamation.

God save the King.

There is an abstract among the Ottley papers of several orders made by the Corporation from the King's coming hither in 1642, to the taking of the town in 1644 by the Parliamentary Forces, from which it will be seen how heavily the town was burdened by this royal visit and other demands.

Tuesday, Sept. 20th [1642] King Charles came to Salop. Ordered that the Chamberlain pay £17 to the King's Princes and Dukes, Footmen and Trumpeters.

That a petition be preferred to shew the weak Estate of the Town, and to desire a week longer to raise the money for his Majesty's Necessity.

Agreed to confer with the Commissioners of the Artillery to know whether they will accept of the Carts, spades, and other Materials in kind, or the price of them in money.

That of the Money collected within the Town & Liberties, all be given to his Majesty, except £100 to the Prince, and a 100 Marks to the Duke of York.

A Committee appointed to treat with Captain Ottley concerning the 200 men to be raised by him within the Town and Liberties, how money shall be raised, and what Part of them the Corporation is to maintain.

Ordered that £200 according to the King's special command be raised by Assessment on Burgesses and Inhabitants for repair of the Castle and the Walls.

Forty men ordered to watch every night, at such places as Mr Mayor and Sir Francis Ottley shall appoint.

The town was possessed of two Pieces of Ordnance given them by his Majesty.

Ordered that the Mayor, Sir Francis Ottley, and others do raise 50 Dragoons or more, for Defence of the King's Person, and of this Town and County.

An Assessment of £200 ordered for providing two pieces of Ordnance, Tuns apiece, and other stores.

The Corporation agreed to be at half the charge of fortifying Montford's Bridge; and that the other Bridges should be fortified, and have turnpikes erected on them.

That a Tun weight of Bullets be provided, and a Gunpowder work be set on Foot.

A Difference arose between the Corporation and Sir Francis Ottley the Governor about his Laying a Tax on the Inhabitants of the Town without the consent of the Corporation.

An Assessment of £500 ordered for his Majesty's Service.

Another for a Month's pay for 120 Soldiers for Garrison in the Town, which to be also Monthly.

Another for £140 for fortifications.

That the Assessors raise with all speed the Assessment of £800.

Another Assessment of £1,000 ordered for making Fortifications, and buying 6 pieces of Ordnance.¹

The inundation of fervent loyalty backed up by such an overwhelming military force made Shrewsbury an undesirable residence for those who wished to steer a middle course, or who held altogether with the Parliament, and many who were able to do so left the town, while those who remained were closely watched. There are several lists of delinquents among the Ottley Papers.

The names of the delinquents within the towne and liberties of Shrewsbury,

The next paper, although anonymous, appears to be of an official character, and expresses the mind of the triumphant party on what is necessary to be done. It was probably in consequence of this communication that the King issued a Proclamation immediately on his arrival in Bridgnorth, "For the better peace and quiet of our County of Salop," in which he accuses "some persons of good quality" of uttering or dispersing scandalous and seditious speeches, of purpose to alienate the affections of his subjects and to slander his person and government; and of contributing to the maintenance of the forces traitorously and rebelliously raised against him under the Earl of Essex; and commands them to be apprehended, as persons charged by him with high treason. Thomas Nichols and Humphrey Mackworth, Esqs., of Shrewsbury, and Thomas Hunt, Esq., are mentioned by name. In consequence of this and a letter which accompanied it, the Corporation "Agreed that the aldermen and assistants of this town mentioned in his Majesty's letter, viz., T. Nichols, H. Mackworth, T. Hunt, John Betton, Thomas Wingfield, William Rowley, Owen George, John Prowde, John Lloyd, John Lowe, John Mackworth, Richard Cheshire, and George Williams, as persons disaffected to his Majesty's person and government, shall bee sequestered from the several meetings till they have cleared themselves; and if they do not, then new ones to be chosen in their stead." (O. and B. Hist. Sh., i., 430).

LXVIII. TO THE EARL OF BRISTOL.

RIGHT HONORABLE

I have made bould to send these propositions to your honor for to furnish us with armes for our number for garison ; first

- 1 That Henry Binney, Clarke to the Bande of Thomas Hunt, who did assume the name of Capitaine to the militia of Shrewsburie, doe goe alonge with some eminent officer, to demande all their armes, powther match & bullet, of every man that was inlisted, or lett them be imprisoned untill they bring them in.
- 2 What number of souldiers are thought fitt to be raised by the towne & liberties, besydes the Cuntrie forces, & how the Commanders & souldiers maye be payd.
- 3 That these men hereafter mentioned, be to attende his maistie to London, or Special Caution be given for there non invitation of the Rebbl'es forces, William Rowley, bear brewer, Owen George, mercer, John Prowde, Draper, John Lloyde, Draper, John Lowe, Draper, Thomas Clarke, Butcher, Richard Chesheare, Draper, John Mackworth, Dier.
- 4 That Joseph Lloyde, John Winckfield, Nathanyell Prowde, all Drapers, be sent for, & on oath to deliver in what Plate they did packe for London ; whose it was, & to what use it was sent ; & who to there knowledge hath sent horse man & monies to the Parliament forces.
- 5 That an Ingeneire & an experienced Chyurgion be left here.
- 6 That six hundred Dragon'es of Sir Robert Howard's regiment, if it might be spared, be for the defences of this Countie, assisted by the Charge of the North Wales Counties, with Chester, For the Trayned bands at this season being there [they] will be much Troubled, & I feare the service by them will be by them most slenderly performed, some of there minds being soe variously possessed.
- 7 That all the gunsmiths in this Countie maye be Com-manded to worke in Shrewsburie, or thereabouts, that none shall have muskites or pistolls, but what shall be made for the King's use.
- 8 That all the gentrie, of what qualitie soever, that have shewed themselves disaffected, or neutrall, maye give in Caution, that if any enimy come they maye find noe partie to assist them.

- 9 That North Wales, Chessheare, & Lancasheare, since Shropsheare is there guarde from any force from the Parliament, & now are constrained to draw up a thousand or at least six hundred dragoners, it is desyred that they should Contribute somewhat to our Charge through these whole Counties, see, that as long as we are able, to defend ourselves or our owne stringth that is now to be raised, & our trayned bands.

LXIX. INGAGEMENT AND RESOLUTION OF THE GENTLEMEN OF SALOP.

[1642.]

The Ingagement and Resolution of the Principall Gentlemen of the County of Salop, for the Raising and Maintayning of Forces at their own Charge, for the Defence of His Majestie, their Countrey, and more particularly the Fortunes, Persons, and Estates of the Subscribers under-named.

We whose names are under-written, do hereby ingage ourselves each to other, and promise upon the Faith and Word of a Gentleman, that we will do our uttermost endeavours, both by our selves and friends, to raise, as well for defence of our King and Countrey, as our own particular safeties, one entire regiment of Dragoneers, and with our lives to defend those men's Fortunes and Families that shall be Contributors herein, to their abilities. And for the more speedy expedition of the said service, as also for prevention of being surprized and plundered by our Enemies, we have thought fit to intreat Sir Vincent Corbett formerly Captain of the Horse for this County, to be our Chief Commander over the aforesaid Regiment; And likewise we have appointed the day of our appearance for bringing in of every man's proportion of his Horse or Money, according to the subscription of his undertaking, to be the Twentieth day of December, all in Battlefield.

He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Bromley of Shrawardine Castle, Salop, by whom he had no family. He married for his second wife Margaret, daughter of Sir Vincent Corbet, and relict of Thomas Corbet of Stanwardine, Co. Salop, by whom he had two sons and three daughters. His name appears in the list of the Grand Jury of the Assizes held in Shrewsbury, August 8, 1642. He took up the royal cause with great earnestness, was knighted in consideration of a handsome gift by Charles I. on the occasion of his visit to Shrewsbury 29th of September of the same year, became Colonel of a regiment of foot, and was appointed Governor of Whitechurch. He served under Lord Capel in the fruitless attack upon Wem, Oct. 18th, 1643, where he was mortally wounded; died the 21st of the following January, and was buried in Condover Church, where there is a monument to his memory.

¹ We have in these papers a new chapter brought to light in the career of that remarkable man, Colonel John Birch, who played such a conspicuous part in Herefordshire and Gloucestershire during the Civil War. The editors of his Life, published by the Camden Society, although they had access to the Ottley Papers, appear to have been quite ignorant of Letters No. xxxix. and xlv. (ante), which bring him before us as a Bristol Wine-Merchant, desirous of figuring as anything rather than a Roundhead, and especially anxious to promote "free trade" between Shrewsbury and Bristol. Burnet was clearly justified in speaking of him as a carrier, though a somewhat misleading designation, inasmuch as he was certainly not a common carrier conveying other people's goods in his own cart or on his own pack-horses. Many of the wealthy merchants of the city of Bristol were also more or less engaged in conveying up and down the river Severn both foreign and home produce, whom no one would dream of calling carriers except in derision. According to the Calendar of the Spring Assizes of 1642-3 (No. lxxxi., post), he was committed the 4th day of January, by four of the leading Justices of the Peace of Shropshire "charged with suspicion of High Treason," but whether he was actually seized and sent to Shrewsbury Castle we are unable to learn. If so, he must have made his escape shortly afterwards, no unlikely feat for a man who showed such resources and audacity in his subsequent career, for on the 18th of the same month Sir Francis Ottley issued the above warrant for his apprehension. According to a letter dated the day after, from Bridgnorth, (No. xxxix. ante) he was at that time transacting important business with Sir Thomas Wolrych and others, who offer to become bail for him, for it so happened this warrant was served on him while he was in their company. Eight days later he writes to Sir Francis Ottley from Bristol (letter xlv. ante) in which he figures as an innocent merchant. Whether he surrendered himself at the Assizes to answer the charge laid against him we have no means of learning. In the warrant he is called "John Burch, late of Kanke [no doubt Canke or Cannock] in the county of Stafford, gent., who hath taken up arms and is a disaffected person to our Sov'aigne Lord the King, and doth still persist therein as a traytor to his Royal person." The inscription on his tombstone in Weobley church, Herefordshire, for which borough he sat in Parliament for a time, informs us he came of a worthy Lancashire family; the Revd. Canon Phillott in a paper on Weobley contributed to the "Transactions of the Woolhope Field Club," says he came of a Cheshire family. From these contradictory statements it is evident that nothing is certainly known of his origin. The Revd. W. G. D. Fletcher has, however, kindly furnished the following satisfactory account of him, which sets the question at rest:—

He entered his pedigree, at Sir William Dugdale's Visitation of Lancashire in 1664-5, at Manchester on the 9th of September, 1664.¹ From this pedigree it appears that he was the only child of Samuel Birch, of Ardwick, co. Lancaster, who was third son of Ambrose Birch of Openshaw in the same county. He is described as "of Ardwicke aforesaid, and of Whitborne, co. Hereford, esq., and now in commission of the peace for the county of Hereford, æt. 47 in 1664." His wife was Alice, widow of Thomas Selfe of Bristol, grocer, and daughter of Thomas Deane of Bristol; and by her he had two sons, John and Samuel, and two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth. From his monument in the chancel of Weobley Church, Herefordshire, it appears that he was born on the 7th of Sept., 1616, and died on the 10th of May, 1691, being M. P. for Weobley at the time of his death.

There was another well-known old family of Birch, seated at Leacroft in the parish of Kanke or Cannock; and it would seem that Sir Francis Ottley supposed (erroneously, of course), that John Birch was a member of this Cannock family, whose pedigree is recorded in the Vis., Staffs., 1663-4.—W. G. D. F.

If we may hazard an opinion to explain the presence of John Birch in Shropshire at this particular time, it is that he was seeking recruits for his company of Volunteers, in Bristol, of which he was to be the captain. "From the beginning of October many of the youths of the place [Bristol] under the Parliamentary plea of acting for the King, were already expert in arms."² Owing to his connection with the traffic of the Severn, Birch would be well known to the throwmen, a rough and hardy race, who plied between Shrewsbury and Bristol, from among whom he may have hoped to secure recruits, and that a spy had informed Sir Francis Ottley of the fact.

¹ Thomas Edwardes, of the College, Shrewsbury, and of Greet, co. Salop, a zealous Loyalist, whose name appears to the "Engagement and Resolution" before alluded to, was for his services in the Royal cause created a Baronet by Charles I., March 21st, 1644-5. It has, however, been doubted whether the patent, owing to the unsettled state of the times, was or was not taken out. It is clear that the warrant for the appointment received the Royal sign manual, and, I apprehend, the patent was completed, for in a letter addressed Aug. 6th, 1645, hereinafter inserted, he is addressed as Sir Thomas Edwards. He had to compound for his loyalty by payment of £2,060. In Drury's Catalogue he is only entitled "Esq.," but so also is Sir Edward Acton, Baronet. He died 1660.—G.M. He is said to have been "a preacher of extraordinary skill, who lived uprightly, and suffered much by his ejection." Stephen Baxter, another son, was also educated at the same School, entered New Inn Hall, Oxford, took his B.A. 22nd October, 1639, and his M.A. 15th June, 1642, and became Rector of Harrington, co. Worcester, from which he was ejected for nonconformity, and afterwards practised physic. Baxter calls him most humble and blameless. (Alumni Oxonienses; Hist. of Shrew. School.)

² Letitia Corbet was the wife of John Corbet, of Child's Arcall, Esq., son of Sir John Corbet, of Stoke and Adderley, both of whom I shall have occasion to refer to hereafter. She was the daughter of Sir Francis Knollys, cousin of Queen Elizabeth. Mary Boleyn, sister of Anne Boleyn, was his grandmother. LXXIX. EDWARD BROWNE TO SIR FRANCIS OTTLEY.

Right Worshipfull Sire ffrances my servis remembred: my Desir is that you will bee pleased with pacienc to reed these fewe lynes. I, a poor neighbour of yours and ane inhabiter of the towne of Shrowsbury, who att all times was payable to every sesment and lawfull taxsacion, and was constantly resident in towne, upon tuesday being the last day of the month, Sire Paule Harris sent for my Brother¹ before him, and from thence too prison and hade not soe much time too returne too his wiffe and seven smale Children: therupon, I beeing in towne came forth the same day to the place where I was borne to certifie his wife of what had befallen my Brother, and having some privit ocasions of my owne beeyond. I stayd there-about till fryday. Worthy Sire, I cam forth openly through the gate about tenn of the cloke and withall I never saw any messenger nor warrand from your worshipp, which if I had I would have binne redy to obaye, nevertheless upon fryday night last five of your worships soldeers, whether with your worships warrand or without I cannot tell, came to my brothers house where I hade binn the day before and entered the house in a most unhuman manner with thayr sowords drawne too the terrifying of the poore woman and seven small children, and made ane ould mane of foreshore years of age arise out of bede and thretned too cleve his brains; and withall rifled all the house with many bloddy oaths and other vile expressions, as if thay had binn sarching for some malifacotter, ore, or thife, or murtherer, and tooke away, by the report of the maids, one flactson shert, one on bands of the ould man's, and withall, a coate and a rappure of mine. As for the rappur I have not any ocacion, but my desier is that you wilbe plesed to take my cote into your costitie that it bee not worne by those neightbours, wherby too agravat the great grife of my wife: worthy Sire I ame loath too complaine of my neightbours but in a word they doe much abuse the clemence, mercy, and good nature, that remains in your worships in giveing out great threats of cruelty, and saying thay have your worships warrand, for my parte I was never acused befor your worship, nor any other, for any disloyelty, and godwilling, when I have ended some small busnes that concerneth my prent ocacion I will returne in the same maner I went forth: soe with my continuall prayers too god in your worships behalfe, I rest

¹ Lord Brook was shot in the eye by Dum Dyott, a deaf and dumb man, while directing the attack of the Parliamentary troops on Lichfield Cathedral, March 2nd, 1642-3, of which wound he died. By a strange coincidence he received his death wound on the festival of St. Chad, the patron saint of the Cathedral, and by a bullet made of the lead from the roof of that building.

LXXXI. A CALENDAR OF PRISONERS AT THE SPRING ASSIZES.

Salop. A Kalinder of all the prisoners which are now in the charge of the Right Wor^{ll} Henrey Bromley, Esq^r

high Sheriff of the county aforesaid with there causes for felony or any other crime as followeth.¹

1. William Webb, charged with speacking of ill and malyticus speeches against the Kings Ma^{tie} tending to the dishonor of his Ma^{tie} & disturbance of the comonwealth. Comitted the 24 day of October, 1642.

P. Robart Eyton, Knight.²

2. Saumell Swanwick,³ comitted untill his Maties Pleasure be further signified concerning him unto me. Comitted the xiiij day of December 1642.

Balled P. Sir Paul Harris⁴

¹ The Judge before whom these cases were tried was probably Sir Robert Heath, Lord Chief Justice of England, for I find in the borough accounts of Bridgnorth the following entry, the 24 February, 1642-3:—"Frances Onyons, widdow, for loss in taking again 2 hogshedes of strong beere, 1 hogshhead of table beere, and 2 barrelles of ale, which were lately had of her and lay'd into the College, upon a generall speech of an assize to be kept in this town before Sir Robert Heath, Lord Chief Justice of England, but afterwards staid and put of, in respect of the civill warrs in this Kingdom when judges cold not goe their circuites, 10s., and for carryinge in and out of the said beere and ale, 4s. 2d." Shrewsbury being a stronger garrison than Bridgnorth would not be exposed to the same risk. (Re-print of the Hist. MSS. Com. in Trans. Shrop. Arch. Soc., vol. x., p. 126). Ten criminal cases in the first part of the Calendar are here omitted as being of no interest.

² Probably of Duddleston, in the parish of Ellesmere, on the extreme north-west border of the county. Sir Robert Eyton married Jocosa, daughter and heiress of Francis Lloyd, of Hardwick, Salop (Vide Vis. Salop, 1623)

³ Gough (Hist. of Middle) says, "There were severall Gentlemen in our neighbourhood that were forced to fly from their houses in the warres, and to shelter themselves in Garrisons; and because they could have but little benefit from their lands towards maintaining them, therefore they had commissions to be captains, to the end they might receive a captain's pay to maintain them. Of this number was Captaine Whitecomb of Hardwicke, Captain Richardson of Broughton, Captain Rea of Wicherley, Captaine Swanwicke, and others."

⁴ Sir Paul Harris, of Boreatton, Knight and Baronet, Sheriff of Shropshire 1637, son of Sir Thomas, Sheriff in 1619, whom he succeeded in 1629, and died in 1644. Gough, the historian, of Middle, says, "He sent out warrants requiring and commanding all men, both householders with their sons and servants, and sojourners and others, within the Hundred of Pimhill, that were between the age of 16 and 60. to appear, on a certain day, upon Middle Hill. was then about eight or nine years old, and went to see this great show, and there I saw a multitude of men, and upon the highest bank of the hill I saw one Robert More standing with a paper in his hand, and three or four soldiers' pikes stuck upright in the ground by him, and there he made proclamation, that if any person would serve the King as a soldier in the wars he should have 14 groats a week for his pay. Sir Paul was a person not well beloved by the ancient gentry of this county, for being, as they termed him, but a buck of the second head ; yet being a baronet, and a proud imperious person, he took place of those of ancient knight's degree ; neither was he beloved by the common people." Sir Paul was succeeded by his son Sir Thomas Harris, a very distinguished loyalist, who, with " Dame Ann, the widow of Sir Paul Harris, deceased, delinquants, had to pay a composition of £1542."

¹ Henry Bromley, of Shrawardine Castle, in this county, and also of Holt Castle, in Worcestershire, was great-grandson of Sir Thomas Bromley, Lord Chancellor of England, son of George Bromley, Sheriff in 1522. He was the High Sheriff of this year. (Vide Blakeway's Sheriffs).

² Robert Corbet, of Stanwardine, Esq., the friend of Gough the historian of Middle, who was Justice of the Peace for Salop, Custos Rotulorum, and Master in Chancery, was living at this time, but I know of no sufficient reason to conclude that he was the person named above. From the character of his two sureties the accused must have been a man of good position.

10. John Browne² of litle nese, comitted for that he hath absolutly refussed to joyne with the power of the County, &

² That the charges against John Brown were proved, and that he suffered imprisonment, is probable, although we have no proof; but I learn from Gough's History of Middle (p. 98) that this John Browne, of Little Ness, was, at the time of the Commonwealth, chosen by the Protector, together with Thomas Baker, of Sweeney, "to bee a Parliament man," i.e., a Knight of the Shire. The same authority calls him "a selfe conceited, confident person, butt one that Mr. Baker had a great respect for, because hee favoured the Independent Party. This Parliament," he proceeds to say, "was picked by the Protector through the whoale Kingdom, and not chosen by the free-refused to pay the taxacion legally imposed upon him touching the same, And for that also he hath Manifestly expressed him selfe to be disaffected in denyinge the Earle of Essex, & those that tooke his part at Edge hill against the Kinge to be Rebles, & in sayinge that it is conceived that the power of the Kinge is in the two housses of Parlyament. Comitted the 27 day of february 1642.

LXXXII. BUSHELL'S CONTRACT FOR CLOTHING.

March the 6th 1642.

Mr Bushell made his proposition thus that he would procure for the King's Souldiers Cassocks, Breeches, Stockings & Capps at reasonable rates to be delivered at Oxford, and at the delivery to receyve readye money, or a bill of exchange to be paid at London, the choyce to be left to them who provide the clothes. And when one Loade of Clothes is brought, or in bringing, to go on with providing of a second Loade, and so from time to time till the Kings Army be all provided for, and paid for in such manner as before.

holders, as usuall. Itt was thought that the Protector chose this Parliament on purpose thatt they might make him King; butt this Parliament was too wise to do that, although the Protector, when he turned them out, called them a Parliament of fools." It was through the families of the Bakers and the Brownes that the Sweeney estate descended to the present owner. See the letter from John Browne's brother complaining of the rough treatment of the soldiers when apprehending their prisoner.

² (?) of Whitton, in the Parish of Westbury, Salop.

³ Sir Nicholas Crisp, knighted in 1641, received a commission from the King in July of this year (1643) to raise a regiment of five hundred horse, but before it was complete it was surprised in his absence at Cirencester by Essex and captured to a man. The disaster appears to have entailed on him no discredit in the opinion of the King, who, in the November following, commissioned him to raise a regiment of fifteen hundred foot, but it would appear he did not carry out the design. (Dict. Nat. Biog.) He erected a mansion at Hammersmith, was created a Baronet in 1665, in which year he died. His son, Ellis Crispe, married a daughter of Sir George Strode.

⁴ Sir George Strode belonged to an old Somersetshire family. He resided in London, and afterwards at Westerham, co. Kent. He ¹ The numerous letters written by Thomas Bushell to Sir Francis Ottley, and the interest he takes in his friend's welfare, point to a very cordial relationship between them. ¹ To the first letter of Richard Lloyd in this series (No. xxvi.) I appended a note suggesting it might have been written by Richard Lloyd of Llwynymaen, but this is a mistake. There is little doubt that the frequent correspondent of Sir Francis Ottley was Sir Richard Lloyd of Ecclesham, near Wrexham, at whose house the King staid on his way from Shrewsbury to Chester in September, 1642, and again on his return from that city, on which occasion he knighted him. According to the authority of the Dictionary of National Biography, he was the eldest son of Priamus Lloyd, of Marrington, Shropshire, entered the Inner Temple 1631; and attended Charles I. into North Wales in 1639. In a commission of Prince Rupert preserved in the muniments of Shavington, Shropshire, he is styled "Attorney Generall of Wales and the Marches." In 1645 he was made Governor of Holt Castle, Denbigh, and treated with the Parliament for its capitulation, Dec. 1646. He died 1676, and was buried in Wrexham Church.

Rowly at Shrewsbury, these.

The sense of insecurity expressed in the following letter arose, doubtless, from a very severe reverse sustained by the King's troops under Sir Thomas Aston, at Middlewich, six days previously (March 11th). The account given by Phillips in his Civil War in Wales is as follows:—"The largest force which had yet issued out of Chester came to Middlewich. They were exceedingly strong in foot soldiers, most of whom were Welshmen, under the command of Col. Ellis and Major ¹ Probably John Jeffreys, Esq., a Councillor of the Court of the Marches, and Justice of North Wales.

² Jonathan Rowley was the son of William Rowley of Shrewsbury, draper, by his wife Alice, daughter of John King of Birmingham. The father was an intimate friend of the celebrated Nonconformist minister, Richard Baxter, and the son appears to have embraced the same religious principles, hence he was no friend of the royal cause. His name will be found in the preceding list of those whom the Governor had ordered to be apprehended and brought before him on the charge of not having shown their loyalty to his Majesty's service. It is probable that Jonathan Rowley found means to escape from the town and await a more favourable turn of events, which in due course arrived, for during the Commonwealth he was elected (1653) Mayor of Shrewsbury.

Gilmore. Sir Thomas Aston commanded the horse. The next day was Sunday. Partial as was the Puritan to a strict observance of the Sabbath, even in his view there were times when work and not repose was to be. And it was so now, the urgency of the occasion did not admit of delay, and Sir William Brereton occupied himself the whole day in preparing for the morrow, when an attack was a certainty, and in annoying the enemy by frequent alarms. Sir William was then at Northwich superintending the fortifications going on there. The body of his forces was at Nantwich. Messages were sent thither ordering them to join with the Nantwich forces on Monday morning. The battle, however, had been raging for some hours before these appeared. When they did come they brought victory with them. The royalists could not stand the attack of the reinforcements, and were driven back from the streets into the church, where they were 'wedged up like billets in a wood-pile, no man at his arms.' All in the church were captured. No less than five hundred prisoners were made; among them were Col. Ellis, Major Gilmore, some eleven captains, and a number of other officers. Horses, arms, and ammunition in great quantity fell into the hands of the Parliamentarians. The Royalists were utterly routed. Sir Thomas Aston gives a graphic picture of the entire want of discipline, if not even the cowardice, of the men engaged." (Phillips, i., 144).

This was a critical time, and there was probably some confusion arising from orders and counter-orders. On the 4th inst. Lichfield had been taken by the Parliamentary forces under Gell; Prince Rupert had been repulsed in his attempt on Bristol on the 7th; and on the 11th the Royalists were defeated at Middlewich. Shrewsbury and Bridgnorth had been denuded of troops, and here was a "force" without ammunition, without regimental colours, and its commander puzzled with conflicting orders!

¹ This was the battle of Hopton Heath, fought on the 19th March. The Earl of Northampton had been despatched from Banbury to retake Lichfield, when he met Gell's forces about two miles from Stafford. "After a short conflict he drove the enemy before him; but in the moment of victory, as he was charging too far in advance, his horse was killed under him, and his helmet struck from his head. The Parliamentary soldiers who surrounded him offered him quarter. 'I scorn,' was the disdainful reply, 'to take quarter from such base rogues as you are.' Irritated by this contemptuous rejoinder, a soldier dashed at him with a halbert and silenced him for ever." (Gardiner.) Brereton, arriving on the field, enabled his beaten comrades to hold the ground. Both sides claimed the victory.

Sir Barnabas was a younger brother of the noble house of Holme Lacey, Herefordshire. He was appointed Governor of Hereford by Prince Rupert, which city he successfully held for six weeks against the Scotch forces under the Earl of Leven, who besieged it in August, 1645; but on its surprise by Col. Birch in December of the same year he with difficulty escaped across the frozen river Wye, and fled to Ludlow, from thence to Worcester, intending to ride to Oxford and exculpate himself at the feet of the King. At Worcester, however, he was seized and imprisoned for seven months, and having fruitlessly endeavoured to obtain his trial by a court of war, he published his defence. (Life of Col. Birch, Cam. Soc.) He compounded for his estate by payment of £100.

She was married when very young to James Stanley, seventh Earl of Derby, with whom she lived in peaceful happiness till civil strife called him to the defence of the Isle of Man, leaving to his countess the management of all his English affairs." JOHN CORBETT²

¹ Thomas Juckes of Buttington, Esq., was the son of George Juckes, by Mary, daughter of George Kerry of Binweston, Esq. He was grandson of Thomas Juckes of Buttington, Sheriff of Montgomeryshire in 1580, 1602, and 1621. The cousinship between Thomas Juckes and Sir Francis Ottley arose from an aunt of the latter, Anne Ottley, daughter of Adam Ottley, having married George Kerry of Binweston.

² John Corbett, Esq., of Child's Arcall, already mentioned as the husband of Lettice Corbett (Paper LXXVII.), was the son of Sir John Corbett, of Stoke and Adderley, Bart. Unlike his father he sided with the King, and signed the "Engagement and Reolution of the Gentlemen of Salop." He was posted at Dunnington, which I take to be a place of this name, though now spelt Donnington, in the parish of Wroxeter. It stands at the foot of Charlton Hill, midway between the high road to Stafford and the river Severn, both of which it would be of great importance to guard. From the summit of the above-named hill, which is about five hundred feet above the sea level, an extensive view of the surrounding country is obtained. There was a shot foundry at Leighton, not more than three miles away on the south-east, in full working order at the time, and much traffic on the Severn, hence the importance of the position. On the death of his father, in 1662, he succeeded to the baronetcy, and had to compound by the payment of £10,000, according to the Dictionary of National Biography; but, according to the late George Morris, it was as John Corbet of St. James's, Middlesex, Esq., that he compounded, and in the sum of £1,000.

Whereas William Browne of Roden in this County of Salop gent. hath lent and disbursed in the xijth yeare of his mats Raigne last past the some of £300 to Humfrey Mackworth, Esqr. upon certen of his Lands at Betton Strange, by one Indenture of Mortgage thereof made by the said Humfrey Mackworth² to the said William Browne payinge threescore

² Humphrey Mackworth, of Betton Strange, in the parish of St. Chad, Shrewsbury, the eldest son of Richard Mackworth of the same place, was a burgess and alderman of Shrewsbury, named in the Charter of Charles I. (1638); he declared for the Parliament at the outbreak of the war, and was denounced by the King immediately after his departure to Bridgnorth as one of those "persons of good poundes p ann. out of the said Lands at Betton Strange to the said W^m Browne his Executors adm'rs or assignes, w^{ch} Lands, together with all the rest of the state of the said Humfrey Mackworth is sequestred into his mat's hands, and to me and others directed as Sequestors thereof. Now knowe ye that in regard the said William Browne, is a loyall & true subiect to his mat^e, and that the Mortgage was soe longe since made before the Sequestracon, and that the said William Browne may quietly enioy the remaynder of yerres w^{thout} losse & detriment I Sir Francis Ottley Knight, and the Sequestor, for the consideracon aforesaid am content and doe give license and free libertie to the said William Browne his Executors administrators & assignes to take and receave the rents yssues and proffitt of the said Lands, by vertue and power, and accordinge to the contents of the said Mortgage, w^{thout} lett or interrupcon of any p'son or p'sons whatsoever. In confirmacon whereof I have hereunto putt my hand the day of 1643.

This next letter is the first intimation, of an official nature, received by the Governor of Shrewsbury of Lord Capel's appointment "under the Prince his Highness" (the Prince of Wales) to the post of quality" who were guilty of "uttering or dispersing scandalous and seditious speeches, of purpose to alienate the affections of his subjects and to slander his person and government" (See note preceding Letter LXVIII, ante). In 1647 he was Governor of Shrewsbury, and in 1651 was summoned to surrender the town by Charles II, when that Prince entered Shropshire in the nominal command of the Scottish Covenanters; but he politely and firmly declined. He died December, 1654, and, having been one of Cromwell's Privy Council, was buried in King Henry VII's Chapel, in Westminster Abbey, on the 26th, with a very magnificent funeral. His house at Betton Strange has long since disappeared, the only thing remaining being the old brick wall that enclosed the garden.

In his hurry to leave the town on the coming of the King the following things were found:—

A note of Mr. Humfrey Mackworth his goodes that are left at the signe of the bell in Coleham.

Imprimis five Curtens and one paire of Vallians

Three feather Beds and four Boulsters

Two yellow Ruggs and one Orrenge Blankett

five yellow Blanketts and one hide Coverlett six Pillowes and one Carpett

Thirteen Cushiones and eight Empty Baggs.

"Lieutenant General of his Majesty's Forces in the counties of Worcester, Salop, and Chester, and the six northern counties of Wales." It was rumoured in the middle of March, as will have appeared in letter xc. from Oxford. The letter of Lord Capel is unfortunately undated, but it was certainly before April 1st, for in the minutes of a Council of War, held on the 3rd, reference is made to a previous order of Council held on the 1st. The historians of Shrewsbury, Owen and Blakeway, consider his appointment arose from the necessity of some authority more efficient than that of Sir Francis Ottley; whereas Phillips (Hist. Civil War I., 159) considered he was sent "to try and repair the messes into which the ill-starred Sir Thomas Aston had brought the country." The latter reason appears to me the far more probable one. Warburton in his "Memoirs of Prince Rupert" (II., 158) refers to a letter from Lord Capel to that Prince dated from Shrewsbury, the 4th of April, telling him that Sir William Brereton is "master of the field" in Cheshire, with the exception of so much ground as the garrison of Chester can command. Sir William quarters at Whitchurch, and Lord Capel conjures the Prince "to come and take it from him." It is therefore somewhat unfair to place the blame on Sir Francis Ottley. The task he had to perform was undoubtedly a difficult one, but he strove manfully to accomplish it, and up to this period had done so successfully.

Lord Capel was created Baron Capel of Hadham, co. Herts, August 6th, 1641. He sat in the Long Parliament for Hadham, and was beheaded in 1648, by direction of Generals, and Parliamentary leaders, for his zealous attachment to his royal master, having previously escaped from prison, but been retaken.
